Christmas Carol At The Manhattan Arts Center

The Manhattan Arts Center welcomes "A Christmas Carol" to the MAC stage December 7 & 8 at 7 pm and December 9 at 2 pm. This performance is generously sponsored by Yorgensen-Meloan-Londeen Funeral Home, Community First National Bank and The Manhattan Noon Optimist Club. The Christmas classic by Charles Dickens follows the heart-warming story of the grumpy old curmudgeon named Scrooge, the precious and endearing Tiny Tim, and three very persistent ghosts of Christmas Past, Present, and Future. "A Christmas Carol" has been adapted for this performance by Sally Bailey, Director of K-State's Drama Therapy program. The musical adaptation will be performed by local students in grades 3-8 and directed by Brittany Burr, a graduate student in Drama Therapy at K-State. Alyssa Frey, an alumnus of previous A Christmas Carol productions assistant directs this fun youth performance.

Brittany Burr comments that she is "proud to have A Christmas Carol be the first production she is directing since moving here from Maryland to attend graduate school." Brittany also states, "What a phenomenal way to pass on a Christmas tradition by having young actors and actresses getting involved through arts. It has been a pleasure watching those "Aha!"

moments in their eyes when they realize what Ebenezer Scrooge is learning through his journey." Tickets for the performance can be purchased at the Manhattan Arts Center, 1520 Poyntz Ave, by phone at (785) 537-4420 or online at www.manhattanarts.org. Tickets are $10 for adults, $5 for children 12 and under. The Manhattan Arts Center box office is open Monday through Friday from 12 to 5 pm. For more information on other events at the Manhattan Arts Center, visit our website at <http://www.manhattanarts.org>. The Manhattan Arts Center is funded in part by the City of Manhattan and Friends of MAC.

No Forth Of July Fireworks In Town?

By Ashley Wells

At Tuesday night's City Commission meeting some members want to take the bang out of the Fourth of July. They want to stop the sale of some or all fireworks in the City.

In August of this year, the Fire Administration presented to the City Commission statistics collected from local, state wide and national information that presented reason to modify the ordinance. The changes that were recommended to the City Commission were giving the City Administration the ability to declare a state of emergency and ban the sales of fireworks as needed, regulating and banning the use of sky lanterns, and banning aerial fireworks. The City Commission agreed to give authority to the City Administration to regulate the sale of fireworks if conditions required it.

Several cities in Kansas have already considered or will be considering the regulation of the sky lanterns. Lawrence has recently banned the use of sky lanterns and the State of Kansas is reviewing the states firework regulation. The Kansas Fire service is hopeful that the state will ban sky lanterns, but with little proof to show they cause fires it is very unlikely. Even with the doubt of the State, the City Commission of Manhattan agreed to the regulation and ban of the sky lanterns. An updated version of the Firework Ordinance will be rewritten to incorporate these new modifications. As for the banning of aerial fireworks, the City Commission had a few concerns with the enforcements that would be required with this ban and requested to revisit this part at a later time with a Randolph County Police Department representative present to discuss their concerns.

On the 27th of November the City Commission will again hold the discussion of the Firework Ordinance. Back in August, the Fire Administration had reported that Wichita has had a ban on aerial fireworks that discharged farther than six feet for several years and that just recently the City of Hutchinson had adopted a similar ban. Going back to the concern of the City Commission, the enforcement of a ban is always very difficult. Citizens are able to go outside of the city limits and are able to purchase the banned items. The areas directly surrounding the city are not too much of a problem because Randolph County's regulations mirror those of the cities, but Pottawatomie County has different regulations and is not considering changing their firework ordinance. Because of the enforcement issue, the City Administration does not recommend the ban on aerial fireworks.

One other concern that came up that they will be discussing is the illegal firing of fireworks on streets. The possibility of allowing the firing of fireworks in public places such as parks came up. The City's insurance commented that they would have to rewrite the area concerning fireworks unless they were able to prove it wouldn't cause problems. Due to this snag, it is unlikely that parks and other public spaces will be opened up for the discharging of fireworks.

City To Review Comprehensive Plan

By Ashley Wells

The meeting at the Manhattan Urban Area Comprehensive Plan back in April of 2003, the City of Manhattan adopted the Manhattan Urban Area Comprehensive Plan. Due to State Statue and Legal Policy, once a year the Board must review the plan. This year's review will take place on December 3rd and is open to the public. Any persons who have an interest in having an input on the review are encouraged to join the Board in the City Commission's Room at 7 pm. The address is 1101 Poyntz Avenue. Any questions, Contact Lance Evans, Senior Planner of the Community Development

That's The Brakes: Newspaper Work Started 50-years Ago

That's The Brakes'

By Jon A. Brake

I think I am going to buy myself a new gold watch.

Fifty-years ago this month (November 1962) I started in the newspaper business. I had joined the Kansas National Guard in the spring of 1957 as a junior in high school. A veteran of the Korean War had made the statement that if he had it to do all over again he would get in (National Guard) and get it over with so that he would not have been called to active duty.

It sounded good to me. Four-years later, 1961, I was about to get out of the Guard. I didn't make it out. That was the year of the Berlin crisis. (4 June - 9 November 1961). Most people do not remember the Berlin crisis but 220 men in the 250th Ordnance Company from Marysville, Ks still remember it. Russia had put up a blockade around Berlin, Germany and the United States had to fly food into the city for months. As part of the buildup the 250th was called into active service. I was a lowly Spec. 4 and the Company Personnel Clerk. Because of being the personnel specialist I had to go on active duty one month before and stay one month longer than the rest of the Company. The crisis ended (November 1961) just after we reported to Fort Riley, Ks for active duty. We spent the next year being ready, nothing more.

Staying on active duty that last month in 1962 changed my life. A barber in Marysville asked me what I was going to do when I got out. I said I was looking for a job and he responded by saying that the Marshall County News newspaper was looking for an Advertising Manager. I left the barbershop and went straight to the newspaper and got the job. I was 22-years old and didn't know what an Advertising Manager job was but I looked good in uniform and was hired on the spot.

I worked three years as Advertising Manager and loved every minute. It wasn't just the advertising; it was everything about the paper business. This was still in the days when newspapers were printed with hot lead, hand set headlines and linotype machines. I had taken a course in High School on printing. I had learned the type case and could set headlines. After the advertising deadline had passed I would go to the back shop on press day and hand set headlines to help.

I learned photography at the Marshall County News on their Graflex Pacemaker Crown Graphic 4x5 camera. You have seen this camera in the old movies where the photographer will tell someone to "Hold it" and then you see a big flash. That was either a Speed Graphic or a Crown Graphic. They had two sheets of film that were 4x5 inch and you could get beautiful black and white photos. At the newspaper we would take the exposed film into the dark room and develop them one or two at a time.

The photo of this Editor on this page was taken with that same Crown Graphic and then I developed the film and printed the photo. I also have two other photos that I took with the Crown Graphic in our Blue Rapids office. One photo of my son Jahnnie and one photo of my niece Jana. That Crown Graphic is also on display in our Blue Rapids office. In 2003 we started printing the Manhattan Free Press in Junction City at the Daily Union office. The Daily Union Production Manager Ron Maley had several cameras on shelves behind his desk. I took one look and said, "see that Crown Graphic up there", yes, "well I learned photography on a camera just like that one." "Where was that, Maley asked?" "Marshall County News in Marysville I responded." Then Maley said something that hit me between the eyes. "That camera is from Marysville," he said.

In December of 2005 Ron Maley called me into his office as I was waiting for the Manhattan Free Press to be printed in the back room. A Daily Union photographer came in and took a photo of Ron giving me that camera. I wrote about it in the Free Press and the International Society of Weekly Newspaper Editors newsletter picked up the story for their January issue. We also have that on display.

In the first seven years I worked at seven different newspapers.

That's The Brakes

I was moving up but I think the Class mates of 1958 just thought I couldn't hold a job. For ten years I owned the Brake Real Estate office in Manhattan and then got back into newspapers. In all I have worked in 15 different towns and cities. I enjoyed the job in every city, every day. Day in and day out it is fun to get up in the morning and it is fun working every day.

In 1991 I moved back to Manhattan and with $483 I started the Manhattan Free Press. The first issue was one week late because I could not sell the ads," I had the news ready to go, but every time I talked to an advertiser, they thought it was a good idea, but they wanted to see the first issue. Which comes first, the newspaper or advertising?

The second week I offered a double-truck ad to a furniture store and a full-page ad to a car dealer at half price if they paid in advance. That did the trick.

That first Thursday morning was special. We printed 2,000 newspapers in bundles of 100. I had planned on rolling the newspapers, loading them into the car and throwing them up and down the streets of Manhattan. After about 15 minutes, I could see that this was going to be a much large job than I had planned. About that time I heard people coming down the hall. It was my brother, Clark, and my 78-year-old mother who had driven 45 miles to help, and they continued to do so each week.

For the next two years, the three of us looked like the Beverly Hillbillies going down the streets of Manhattan. Mom would be in the back seat rolling papers, and Clark and I would throw the papers. A good time was had by all.

Over the past twenty-some-years we have had two Kansas laws changed because of our reporting. The Free Press has been honored with somewhere around twelve to fifteen awards by newspaper organizations. The top award was the 2005 Kansas Gas Service "Excellence In Editorial Writing." That was the first year for the award. Only two were given, one for weekly newspapers and one for dailies. We have won five or six writing awards including column writing and several editorial winners.

In 2009 we started the Blue Rapids Free Press going against all the best minds in the newspaper world. Most in the newspaper business think that small towns are dead and cannot support a newspaper. I think we have proven that if you do not charge an arm and a leg for advertising people from all over the area will advertise.

Over Easy... by Bob Strawn

Um, have you been paying attention to this conference realignment stuff lately? Or do you even care? I do. You see, I'm pretty much a college sports nut. So, bear with me today while I waste some publisher's ink on the subject. It's a lot more fun than driving-on incessantly about Obamacare, taxes and weed museums.

To the task - there are presently six major college conferences. The word 'major' in this context has nothing to do with academics, mind you. Rather, this is all about winning football games on sunny Saturday afternoons.

Alums. Bands. Bratwursts. Beer. And, most importantly, TV revenue.

So, you won't find Harvard, MIT or the University of Chicago on these 'major' lists. But Kansas State, Oregon, USC (both of them) and many other

'football schools' are members. I have a hard time listing KU as a football school, but they are as well.

Now you may have heard that the six have been and presently are in the throes of poaching schools from one another, trying to expand from the Big 10 and Big 12 to the Great 14, Imposing 16, Massive 18, or maybe even more member institutions.

It all started back in 2003, when the Atlantic Coast Conference added Virginia Tech and Miami. They thought, mistakenly, that they were getting football powers to validate their basketball-driven league. Both schools had formerly been members of the Big East and did well with the pigskin.

More recently, Nebraska went from our Big 12 to the Big 10. Colorado left for the PAC 12. And both Missouri and Texas A&M joined the Southeast Conference. While Texas Christian and West Virginia filled in here to make a ten member family of what we continue to call the twelve.

Of course, we know poaching is a deadly crime against wildlife. But perhaps against players as well? The ACC may soon find just how mortal the practice as this exercise fully plays itself out.

Rumor now has it that pretty soon alignment is going nut-so, again. To get us started, those original poachers out east are being poached upon themselves. Maryland just agreed to leave the ACC and join the Big 10, along with Big East member Rutgers, joining an uppity gaggle of like-minded AAU universities that also play big time football. This is where they claim it's also about academics. The AAU is a by-invitation consortium of self-defined excellent academic institutions. Never mind that Big 10 member Nebraska got thrown out of the AAU. It's still about academics over there.

Cough, cough. But of course, we know that's the case because these institutions are all headed by college presidents - or if haughty enough - university chancellors. And it's these distinguished scholars, these esteemed leaders of ivy-draped academia, who are personally responsible for this deadly exercise that may soon kill off the original poaching conference, the ACC.

As with Maryland, football driven members like Clemson, Florida State and North Carolina State - chasing the almighty TV dollar - just don't care to be associated with lightweights like Duke and Wake Forest. I mean, seriously, who of you will tune-in to watch Wake v. Duke football? I knew your answer. And oh, the irony if the ACC is the first to fold.

Back here on the Plains, I'm not sure what to expect other than our conference of 10, called 12, is sure to grow to its nameplate or more. I'm guessing schools like Clemson, Florida State and Louisville may join. But there's no way of really knowing because all those pinhead presidents are off negotiating the deals at this writing.

In the end though, poacher being poached is better than bloodied road kill in this high stakes game of presidential monopoly. But just the same, as fans, we will always miss watching Colorado, Nebraska and Missouri versus our Wildcats, regardless who may visit 'The Bill' as a future result of this ongoing academic money grab.

Federal Actions Against Union Officials

Below are summaries of criminal actions taken against union officials so far this year. Note that these are federal cases, and therefore exclude any criminal activity prosecuted at the local or state levels.

Frederick Meyers, the former president of International Union of Electronic, Electrical, Salaried, Machine and Furniture Workers Local 431, and his daughter, Jessie Bell, Local 431's pension administrator, were charged with embezzling $85,000 each from the union's pension fund. <http://1.usa.gov/U9LPnm>

Peter LoMauro, former organizer and business agent for the United Association of Plumbers and Pipefitters Local 9, pleaded guilty to illegally accepting a $6,000 payment from a business owner who employed Local 9 workers. <http://1.usa.gov/U9LW2v>

Patrick Viola, the former business manager of the Laborers' International Union of North America Local 592, pleaded guilty to accepting a $4,000 bribe from a local contractor to allow that contractor to use non-union labor. <http://1.usa.gov/Yn8eDb>

Edward Aulisi, a former member of the International Longshoreman Association, pleaded guilty to conspiring with his father, the former president of ILA Local 1235, and a New Jersey mob boss - then wanted for murder - to extort Christmastime tribute payments from Local 1235 members. <http://1.usa.gov/Yn8IsV>

Stephen Arena, president of the Production Workers Union Local 148, pleaded guilty to embezzling money from the union, in collusion with the Local's treasurer, by granting himself unauthorized bonuses and pay-raises. <http://1.usa.gov/U9MQMf>

James Kearney, former business manager of the International Association of Bridge, Structural, Ornamental and Reinforcing Ironworkers Local 45, pleaded guilty to accepting a $3,000 bribe from a representative of a local construction company. <http://1.usa.gov/YnbnCY>

Tyrone Ricky Freeman, the former president of the Service Employees International Union Local 6434, was charged with "with four counts of mail fraud, seven counts of embezzlement and/or theft of labor union assets, one count of making a false statement to a federally insured financial institution, and three counts of subscribing to a false tax return." Freeman faces a maximum 200 years in prison if convicted. <http://1.usa.gov/U9OiOE>

Anthony Fazio Sr., his son, Anthony Fazio Jr., and his nephew, John Fazio were sentenced to 151 months, 5 years, and 135 months, respectively, in federal prison for their roles in a massive criminal scheme that included charges of racketeering, money laundering, and witness tampering. The Fazios were longtime leaders of the United Food and Commercial Workers Union Local 348-S. "For decades, the Fazios sold out their union members, and got rich off the backs of the working men and women they were supposed to represent," Manhattan U.S. Attorney Preet Bharara said of the case.

<http://1.usa.gov/Yndff0>

Hector Lopez, former president of the Metal Polishers Union Local 8A-28A and chairman of the board of its welfare fund, was charged with multiple counts of embezzlement after he allegedly accepted hundreds of thousands of dollars in kickbacks from the Local's welfare fund. The indictment also charged Lopez with living rent-free in a home owned by a company doing business with the union, and with attempting to evade federal income reporting requirements. <http://1.usa.gov/YnhaS>

Four officers of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters Local 82 - John Perry, Joseph "Jo Jo" Burhoe, James Deamicis (a.k.a. "Jimmy the Bull"), and Thomas Flaherty - were charged with 30 criminal violations, including racketeering, extortion, mail fraud, and theft of government money. <http://1.usa.gov/U9Qups>

Ronald Witt, the former business manager of the International Union of Operating Engineers Local 450 was sentenced to a year in federal prison for embezzling union funds to pay for lavish vacations and renovations at his Galveston, TX, home. <http://1.usa.gov/Qo1kKp>

International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 164 business manager Richard "Buzzy" Dressel and president John DeBouter were arrested for allegedly stealing $350,000 from the Local's apprenticeship program. <http://1.usa.gov/Qo17Xw>

Pervasive union corruption reinforces the case for right-towork laws, which allow employees to choose whether or not they wish to pay dues to the unions active in their places of work. Should employees be forced to finance organizations that may acting illegally or against their interests, after all?

What's more, explained Heritage's James Sherk in a recent Issue Brief, under current law, "a union president can legally fire [other union] officials for virtually any reason—including reporting misconduct. Nothing in the law shields union officials from retaliation for whistle-blowing, even though they are the people most likely to uncover corruption."

Pervasive union corruption underscores the need for just these sorts of protections. The extent of that corruption could be far greater than the 12 cases listed above, but may simply go unreported. Since union officers themselves are the ones most likely to observe wrongdoing, protections for them can be essential to rooting out criminal activity.

The Board agreed.

Johnson said at the Randolph City Council meeting they are concerned the community siren still does not work.

Holeman said Pat Collins has been working with KaComm to try to fix the siren. Holeman said Pat Collins is now in contact with a company in Missouri to try to solve the problem.

9:00 Pat Collins, Emergency Management Director

Clancy Holeman, Counselor/ Director of Administrative Services; Johnette Shepek, Budget and Finance Officer; Leon Hobson, Public Works Director/County Engineer; Mel Van Der Stelt; Laura Monsanto, KMAN; Maura Wery, Manhattan Mercury; Lyndal Nyberg, League of Women Voters; Harry Brockish; and Ron Wells, attended.

P. Collins said the Transfer of Property Agreements need to be reviewed by Clancy Holeman and rescheduled.

P. Collins discussed Insurance Service Organization (ISO) standards.

P. Collins said ISO standards will change next year requiring 24 hours of training for volunteer firefighters.

P. Collins said he does not have a contract for this program yet so what he is looking for today is a consensus to accept this kind of training program for the future. That will allow him to brief the volunteers in December on the ISO standards, their solution and bring their training focus group together to start to build a training schedule for next year.

P. Collins said this program isn't cheap. It is based on a per/user cost. Originally, the provider verbally quoted a price of $89 per year per user. P. Collins said they would have around 160 average users. P. Collins said he doesn't have anyway of putting a per firefighter cost for training in the past, but he doesn't think $89 is too much to spend a year for each of their volunteers. The cost is a little over $100 per year if they include the online training package that keeps their EMS first responders trained and up-to-date on the mandatory certification hours.

P. Collins said he recommends the Board allow him to move forward with this training solution for the Riley County Fire District #1.

P. Collins said funding is available in the Riley County Fire District #1's 2013 budget.

McCulloh moved to recess as the Board of County Commissioners and convene as the Riley County Fire District #1 Board. Johnson seconded. Carried 2-0.

The Board by consensus agreed to allow Chief Collins to proceed with the new training program for next year and bring the commission a sole source procurement request with the contract at a later meeting. Johnson said the Randolph City Council said the siren is not working and has not worked since March 2012.

P. Collins said it appears to be a battery problem. P. Collins said Blue Valley Safety will take a look at the siren possibly this week.

Johnson said he would like the siren repaired in the next 30-days.

McCulloh moved to recess as the Riley County Fire District #1 Board and reconvene as the Board of Riley County Commissioners. Johnson seconded. Carried 2-0.

Big 12 Title, BCS Berth On The Line

K-State Sports Information

K-State will look to earn the Big 12's automatic BCS bowl berth and at least a share of the conference title Saturday as the Wildcats host Texas in the regular-season finale at Bill Snyder Family Stadium. The game will be televised live nationally at 7 p.m., as Brad Nessler (play-by-play), Todd Blackledge (analyst) and Holly Rowe (sideline) will have the call for ABC.

A free live audio broadcast is also available on k-statesports.com and on SIRIUS satellite radio channel 85 (XM Channel 85). Wyatt Thompson will call the action on the radio with Stan Weber providing color analysis and Matt Walters giving sideline updates.

Live stats will be also available through Gametracker, while Twitter updates - @kstatesports and @kstate_gameday - and a live in-game blog will all be a part of k-statesports.com's gameday coverage.

A QUICK LOOK AT THE WILDCATS

The Wildcats, 10-1 overall and 7-1 in Big 12 play, are coming off a bye week and their first loss of the year, a 52-24 setback at Baylor. The Cats, who are averaging 415.7 yards per game, rank 11th nationally in scoring offense at 40.5 points per game, while they are tops in turnover margin (+19), 18th in rushing defense (121.0 yds/gm) and 22nd in scoring defense (20.8 pts/gm).

The Wildcats are led offensively by senior quarterback Collin Klein, who was named a finalist for the Maxwell and Davey O'Brien awards last week. The signal caller has thrown for 2,306 yards and 14 touchdowns on 172-of-258 aim, while he has rushed for 20 touchdowns and 787 yards on 171 carries. With his rushing touchdown at Baylor, Klein became the only quarterback from a BCS AQ school in the BCS era to rush for at least 20 touchdowns and pass for at least 10 touchdowns in multiple seasons.

Helping Klein lead the charge offensively is John

Hubert, who has 12 touchdowns in 11 games after three as the full-time starter a year ago. Hubert ranks second in the Big 12 at 75.1 yards per game. Wide receiver Chris Harper has 47 catches for 727 yards and three touchdowns and tied for seventh in school history with 11 receptions against the Bears.

The Wildcat defense has been tough all year and is led by linebacker Arthur Brown. The senior continues to put up All-America numbers as he leads the team with 80 tackles. Defensive back Nigel Malone picked off the 11th pass of his career at Baylor to tie for fifth in school history. Defensive end Meshak Williams continues to put pressure on the quarterback as he is second in the Big 12 and is tied for 10th in school history with 8.5 sacks.

A LOOK AT THE OPPONENT: TEXAS

Texas, 8-3 overall and 5-3 in Big 12 play, will look to bounce back from a Thanksgiving loss to TCU last week. Texas, which ranks 33rd nationally in total offense and 20th in scoring offense, is led by quarterback Davis Ash, who has thrown for 2,458 yards and 17 touchdowns on 193-of-285 passing. The rushing attack is led by Johnathan Gray and Joe Bergeron. Gray has rushed for 654 yards and three touchdowns, while Bergeron has totaled 16 touchdowns and 562 yards. Linebacker Steve Edmond leads the defense with 92 tackles, while defensive end Alex Okafor has 12 tackles for loss and eight sacks.

BYE BENEFITS

Giving K-State an extra week to prepare has traditionally been bad news for opponents. The Cats have had 19 previous mid-season bye weeks under head coach Bill Snyder and have turned the extra week of preparation into a 14-5 record the following week.

WHAT'S AT STAKE

K-State will look to earn its third conference title in school history and second ever Big 12 Conference Championship with a win on Saturday. The 2003 squad brought home the school's first Big 12 football title and BCS bowl berth following an 11-4 season, while K-State's only other football title came back in 1934 when Hall of Fame coach Pappy Waldorf led the Cats to the Big Six crown. Also, K-State will look for its fifth straight win in the series with Texas as the Wildcats have won each of the last four meetings and six of the last eight dating back to the start of Big 12 Conference play. During that span, K-State is also 3-1 against the Horns in Manhattan.

THE 150 CLUB

Head coach Bill Snyder picked up the 150th victory of his career in last year's season opener, joining Frank Beamer (Virginia Tech), Steve Spurrier

(South Carolina), Mack Brown (Texas) and Gary Pinkel (Missouri) as active coaches with 150 wins at BCS schools.

After guiding K-State from 1989 to 2005, and again over the last three-plus seasons, the 2012 national coach of the year candidate is also one of the longest-tenured active coaches in the FBS, ranking fourth among behind Nevada's Chris Ault (28th), Beamer (26th) and Troy's Larry Blakeney (22nd). Even more impressive is that Snyder is the lone BCS coach who has served at the same school for at least 20 years and has never held the same position at another school. Snyder currently ranks fourth among all active FBS coaches with 168 wins since 1990, while he is currently ranked ninth in overall wins.

TURNOVER MARGIN

K-State has shown the ability to force turnovers at a high clip in 2012, which was evidenced by the five turnovers the Wildcat defense forced in their win against Oklahoma State. In fact, K-State is currently +19 in turnover margin, which leads the nation, with 28 turnovers forced and just nine surrendered this year.

To take it a step further, the Wildcats have turned those 28 turnovers into 121 points, while K-State's opponents have scored just 21 points following a Wildcat turnover this season - both figures rank tops in the nation this season. Additionally, the Wildcat defense has collected multiple turnovers in nine games this season and three or more in five matchups.

SCORING NOTES

Following a slow start offensively in the season opener against Missouri State, K-State has picked up the pace considerably. Since the fourth quarter of the season opener, K-State has scored 430 points and has outscored its opponents, 430-223, over that period. K-State has reached the 50-point barrier on four occasions, including three times in conference play. The Cats have also shown the ability to come out of the locker room on fire as they have outscored their opponents, 246-114, in the second half, including a 122-52 mark in the third quarter. Additionally, K-State has yielded no more than one touchdown in the final 15 minutes of each game this year.
