Manhattan International Airport

It's Only An $81,222 Error

The City of Manhattan is lucky, they have found that when they when out for bids on the Airport Terminal expansion, they made an $81,222 error. Lucky? Yes lucky, it could have been more.

After 24-years in Manhattan some people still feel the Free Press does not tell the truth so lets let the Airport Director tell the story:

CITY COMMISSION AGENDA MEMO
FROM: Jesse R. Romo, Airport Director
MEETING: July 21, 2015
SUBJECT: Approve Change Order 18 to Passenger Terminal Construction Contract, Phase I, (AIP 44) at Manhattan Regional Airport
PRESENTER: Jesse R. Romo, Airport Director

The City of Manhattan make an $81,222 error in figuring the cost of the Airport expansion. But don't worry the City is going to sell more bonds to make up the difference.

BACKGROUND

On September 10, 2013, the City Commission awarded a construction contract in the amount of $9,120,000 for Phase One of the Manhattan Regional Airport Terminal expansion to The Weitz Company, LLC, of Lenexa, Kansas. Funding for the project is through a combination of local funds and a federal grant from the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA). FAA requires airport sponsors entering into contracts, in excess of $2,000, for work on projects funded under federal grants to comply with minimum rates of wages predetermined by the Secretary of Labor in accordance with the Davis-Bacon Act, as amended (40 U.S.C. 276a-276a-5). Mead & Hunt, Inc., the City's Architectural and Engineering firm, mandated compliance with the Davis-

Bacon Act in the project documents. Wage Determinations for Highway and Building classifications were incorporated by reference and an internet web link to the Department of Labor website was provided.

On May 5, 2014, the United States Department of Labor (DOL), Wage and Hour Division sent a letter notifying Mead & Hunt that DOL was investigating a subcontractor working on the terminal project. In the letter, DOL informed Mead & Hunt that the Wage Determinations referenced in the contract were incorrect and that the correct Determinations must be incorporated. Upon follow-up with DOL, Mead & Hunt learned that the web link used in the project document was incomplete and did not provide sufficient information. In order to incorporate the Wage Determinations to the satisfaction of DOL, the construction contract was modified to retroactively incorporate hard copies of the appropriate Wage Determinations to the contract, and DOL completed its investigation.

On September 2, 2014, the City Commission approved Addendum One to the Contract Agreement with The Weitz Company, LLC. This addendum incorporated hard copies of the appropriate Wage Determinations and agreed to comply with the DOL ruling.

DISCUSSION

While investigating the subcontractor, City Administration learned that there would likely be a finding by DOL of a misapplication of wage classifications.

On January 13, 2015, the DOL notified FAA of their findings of the investigation.

Three sub-contractors were identified as failing to pay the required prevailing wage rates.

All sub-contractors agreed to make full restitution to their employees. The Weitz Company has submitted a change order request for the restitution amount paid directly to the employees as well as the labor burden amount. It is important to note that had the rate determinations been properly incorporated and interpreted, the cost differential would have been part of the bid proposal.

FINANCING

The net cost of this change order is $81,222. The increase will be added to the total cost owed to the general contractor, The Weitz Company, for Phase One of the Airport Terminal

Building Expansion

The Weitz Company contract is $9,573,366 and the proposed change order is $81,222, for a revised contract amount of $9,654,588.

Currently the City is working with FAA to determine FAA's total participation on this change order with grant funding. Not all costs will be FAA eligible but it is estimated that FAA will contribute at least $34,820 towards this change order cost, and likely will contribute more.

Financing for the City's portion of the project will be obtained through the issuance of General Obligation Bonds with plans to fund the annual debt service from the Bond and Interest Fund. Passenger Facility Charges (PFC) will be used to offset a portion of the annual debt service.

State denies request to Block Gen. Forrest statue

The state of Tennessee has denied the request of Nashville's Metro Council to plant trees and vegetation to block the view of a controversial Nathan Bedford Forrest statue on Interstate 65.

The Metro Council approved a resolution earlier this month that asks the Tennessee Department of Transportation "take the necessary action" to plant vegetation to block the view of the private owned statue that stands along the interstate.

But TDOT commissioner John Schroer informed the council on Monday morning that it does not plant vegetation on its property for the sole purpose of blocking items on nearby private land.

Schroer's response came in an email to the Metro clerk's office that reads:

"TDOT does not plant foliage on its right-of-way with the sole intention of blocking items on private property based on what might be offensive to some and not to others. Therefore, the request of Metro Nashville's Council to have TDOT plant vegetation on I-65 near the Harding Place Exit is respectfully denied."

Forrest, born in Middle Tennessee, was a lieutenant general for the Confederate Army during the Civil War and first grand wizard of the Ku Klux Klan.

At issue is a 25-foot fiberglass Forrest statue, designed by the late sculptor and attorney Jack Kershaw, erected on private land in 1998 near Crieve Hall. Kershaw was among a series of attorneys hired by James Earl Ray after being convicted of the assassination of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in 1968.

Kaw Valley Rodeo Celebrating 40th Anniversary Of Professional Action In Manhattan

By Frank J. Buchman

The best in rodeo is coming to Manhattan, according to Steve Frazier, promotions coordinator and arena director for the 40th annual edition of the Kaw Valley Rodeo.

"Again sanctioned by the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association, performances will begin at 8 o'clock, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, July 23, 24, 25, at Wells Arena in Cico Park, with many of the nations' very best cowboys and cowgirls competing in America's toughest sport," Frazier said.

Seven sanctioned rodeo events include bareback riding, steer wrestling, team roping, saddle-bronc riding, tie-down roping, bull riding and barrel racing, with Rafter H Rodeo Company returning as the stock contractor, along with Lynn Phillips, as announcer.

Professional judges this year are Sam Minnick, El Dorado, and Brad Mattox, Derby.

The Silver Buckle Drill Team of the McPherson Saddle Club will entertain at each performance.

Bullfighters Andy North, Yukon, Oklahoma, and Dustin Brewer, Prairie du Chien,

Officials of the Kaw Valley Rodeo Association, sponsor of the 40th annual Kaw Valley Rodeo, Thursday through Saturday, July 23-24-25, with performances at 8 o'clock, each evening at Wells Arena in Cico Park, Manhattan, include: Steve Frazier, Secretary Peggy Frazier, Treasurer Sandy Chandler, Brenda Bayne, Gwyn Fuqua, Beth McQuade, (middle row) Gene Klingler, Doug Williams, Joshua Kinder, Dick Peterson, President Randy Holle, (back row) Dustin Holle, Vice President Blake Area and Neil Boyer.

Wisconsin, are to protect fallen cowboys during the bull riding, with "The Ragin' Cajun" Rick Young, Tickfaw, Louisiana, serving as barrel man.

Three-time Pro Rodeo Entertainer of the Year

Whiplash the Cowboy Monkey is to perform all three nights. The talented capuchin monkey, a true fan favorite will be showing off his skills and cowboy spirit as he herds wild Barbados sheep, aboard his trusty border collie, Boogie.

During the Rodeo Reading' Roundup, at the Manhattan Public Library, Thursday morning, July 23, 10 o'clock, Kenny Petet, owner and trainer of Whiplash and Boogie, will read from his book, "Whiplash the Cowboy Monkey Saves the Day," with all children in attendance receiving a free copy of the 24-page, full-color paperback, while supplies last. This event will feature meet-and-greets with rodeo clowns, and Miss Rodeo K-State, and free rodeo tickets for kids.

The eighth annual Military Family Appreciation Night Pre-Rodeo Picnic before Thursday's rodeo is free to all military families. Thursday's rodeo will also be Kid's Night with children, 12 and under, admitted free for a non-perishable food donation brought to the rodeo to benefit the Flint Hills Breadbasket.

The annual Kaw Valley Special Rodeo, begins at 7 p.m., Friday, July 24, which has been designated as Tough Enough to Wear Pink Night, with activities to benefit the Kansas State University Johnson Center for Basic Cancer Research

Saturday, July 25, from 10 o'clock, to 2 o'clock, the Flint Hills Discovery Center joins in the celebration of cowboy heritage, promoting a love of the land, and in particular, the Flint Hills region, for the National

Day of the Cowboy, recognizing the cowboy as a symbol of the history of the American West.

Activities planned for the event include unique variations of barrel racing, calf roping, and bull riding, as well as leather stamping, face painting, buckboard rides and cattle calling. Rodeo queens and rodeo clowns will interact with guests, and the mayor of Manhattan will officially proclaim July 25, 2015, as Day of the Cowboy at the Flint Hills Discovery Center.

In 1976, when the Riley County Fair Board needed evening entertainment, a group of rodeo enthusiasts looked into bringing their sport to Manhattan. A fairground arena, established through a federal grant, provided a location, and organizing the rodeo was soon underway.

"Today, four decades later, the Kaw Valley Rodeo continues to bring cowboys, cowgirls, champion livestock and rodeo fans, young and old, together each summer at the Riley County Fair for Manhattan's premier outdoor summer sporting event at Wells Arena. We'll see you there," Frazier invited.

Riley County Minutes Cost Taxpayers $700 Per Month

Editor's Note: (What the Riley County Clerk and the Riley County Commissioners are doing with the Commission Minutes is Deceiving. Look at the Minutes taken by County Clerk Rich Vargo, the County is paying $700 per month to produce nothing but filler and last year it did not cost extra to write a complete history of the meeting.)

Here's the Truth About 6 of Obama's Iran Deal Claims

Michaela Dodge
Heritage Foundation

Months of Iranian pressure on the United States brought its fruition. Iran got a deal that legitimizes its nuclear program, rewards its defiance of international treaties and obligations, and provides it with additional billions of dollars to continue its terrorist activities in the Middle East.

Here are the White House's most egregious misinterpretations of the deal, looking at claims President Obama made during his remarks about the deal this morning.

1. "A comprehensive long-term deal with Iran that will prevent it from obtaining a nuclear weapon."

The concluded deal does not prevent Iran from obtaining a nuclear weapon in the future. The deal imposes temporary restrictions on Iran's illegal nuclear program.

After their expiration, Iran will have better resources to pursue more advanced nuclear technologies and potentially build a nuclear weapon faster than would be the case had sanctions remained in place.

The deal also allows Iran to obtain currently restricted materials to advance its ballistic missile program.

2. "Every pathway to a nuclear weapon is cut off."

Iran is permitted to retain its enrichment infrastructure, including advanced centrifuges. The administration's concession on uranium enrichment is a serious blow to a decade old principle of U.S. nonproliferation policy.

The United States worked very hard in the past to prevent allies from developing indigenous uranium enrichment capability because technologies for uranium enrichment and weapons grade enrichment are the same.

Yet Iran, which developed this capability in defiance of its existing international obligations, is being rewarded for its bad behavior by lifting sanctions on its country, including sanctions concerning shipping, arms sales, transportation, banking and precious metal trade.

3. "The deal is in line with a tradition of American leadership."

In reality, the deal undermines U.S. nonproliferation policy in the Middle East and in the world. The United States has demanded that other countries in the Middle East not pursue enrichment efforts.

While allies obliged, adversarial Iran is getting a deal that legitimizes its illegal uranium enrichment program.

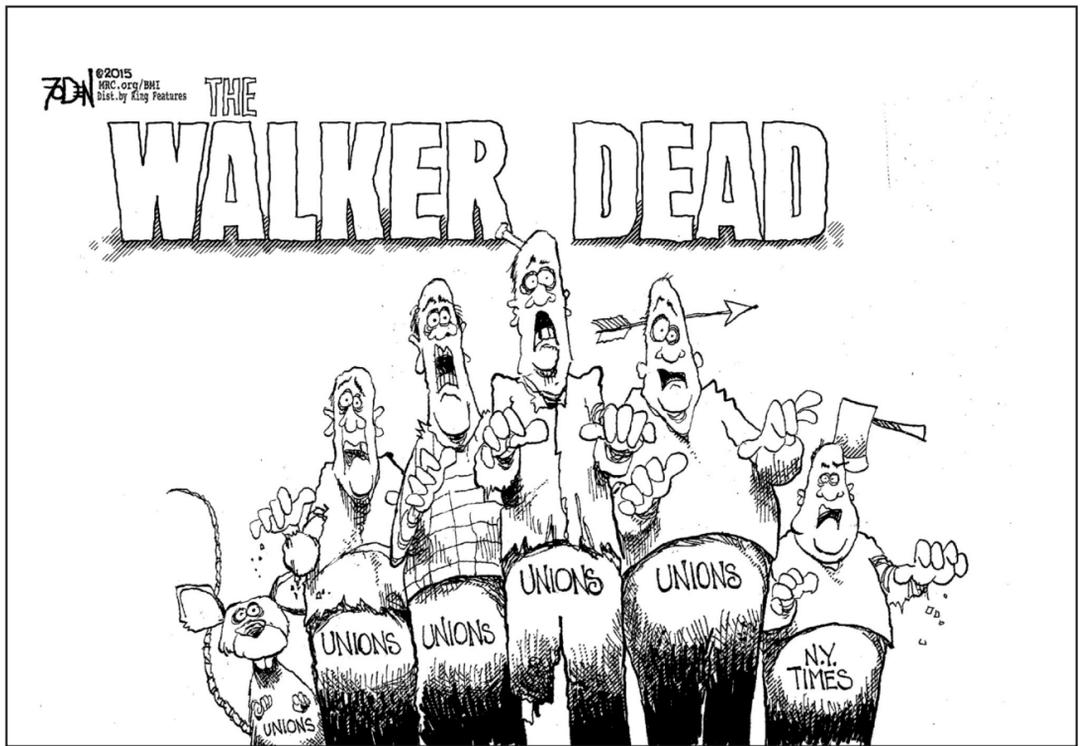

Allies will demand the Iranian deal for themselves and the United States has given up any legitimacy it had in demanding otherwise. Saudi Arabia has already stated it will pursue a similar nuclear program. Others are likely to follow creating a less stable environment in already tense Middle East.

4. "America negotiated from a position of strength and principle."

Time and again Obama conceded on key principles that would improve a chance that the United States is getting a deal beneficial to its national security interest. From a deal that stops Iran's nuclear weapon pursuits to a deal that delays them at best (and speeds them up at worst). From a deal that allows anytime anywhere inspections given Iran's past deception, to more restricted inspections that cannot interfere with Iran's national security and military activities. Iran is not permitted under the Nonproliferation Treaty to pursue a nuclear program with military applications.

5. "The same options that

are available to me today will be available to any U.S. president in the future."

Obama is in a better position to negotiate Iran's nuclear deal because of congressional and international sanctions that Obama is promising to dismantle. Any future president will have to deal with consequences of Obama's concessions on all aspects of Iran's nuclear and ballistic missile program.

Future U.S. presidents will have to deal with Iran that has hundreds of billion dollars more resources to pursue its nuclear program, access to modern technologies, and has been able to maintain nuclear know-how and infrastructure, both nuclear and ballistic missile, to threaten U.S. interests on an unprecedented scale.

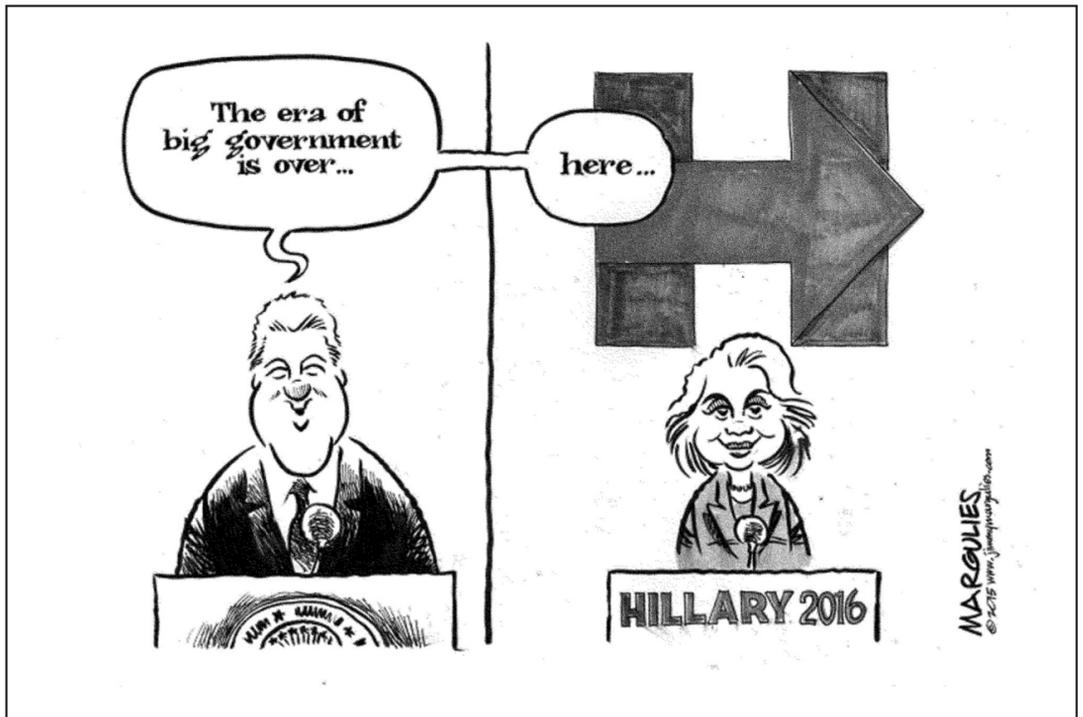

6. "Consider what happens in a world without this deal. Without this deal, there is no scenario where the world joins us in sanctioning Iran until it completely dismantles its nuclear program."

The world has already joined the United States in sanctions. An alternative to a no-deal is to continue them. After all, sanctions are the only reason why Iran negotiated to begin with.

A continuation of sanctions is a sound alternative to a bad deal that the Obama administration has negotiated. Continuing sanctions will limit Iran's ability to fund terrorism across the Middle East, access to advanced technologies and rare materials that will allow Iran to further improve its nuclear and ballistic missile program, and the pressure of sanctions would give the United States more time to negotiate a better deal.

Jerk Chicken and Pineapple Foil Packets

Robust flavors like jerk seasoning and coconut rum deliver major impact in this grilled chicken dinner.

Ingredients

- 1 lb boneless chicken thighs or breasts
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 3 tablespoons jerk seasoning
- 1/2 medium pineapple, cut into triangles
- 2 tablespoons coconut rum or rum, if desired
- Chopped fresh cilantro and lime wedges, as desired

Directions

- 1 Heat gas or charcoal grill.
- 2 Place large sheet of heavy-duty foil or double layer of regular foil on work surface. Rub foil with a little olive oil.
- 3 Place chicken in center of foil. Drizzle with olive oil; sprinkle with jerk seasoning. Scatter pineapple wedges around chicken. Pour over rum.

4 Bring short ends of foil together, and fold twice to seal; fold in sides to seal, leaving room for steam.

5 Place packets on grill over medium-high heat. Cover grill; cook 20 to 25 minutes or until juice of chicken is clear when thickest part is cut (at least 165°F), turning chicken once. Cooking time will depend on size of chicken.

6 Remove from grill; unwrap and top with fresh cilantro and lime wedges.

Coach Bill Snyder

K-State at Big 12 Media Day

K-State head coach Bill Snyder addressed the media during the Big 12 Football Media Days held in Dallas on Monday. In addition to Coach Snyder, K-State is represented by Dante Barnett, Morgan Burns, Stanton Weber and Cody Whitehair on the first of the two-day media gathering to help preview the 2015 season. For more, head to Media Days Central at Big12Sports.com.

COACH SNYDER: Not a whole lot to share with you. We can go ahead and get started. I'm pleased to have the opportunity to be here. Been here longer than most of you, I think. I don't know whether that's a good thing or a bad thing, but it is what it is.

My respect to our conference and those of you that cover our conference. We greatly appreciate that. I didn't get to hear Commissioner Bowlsby, but I have a great appreciation for him and what he has meant to our conference. He has stepped into the commissioner's role.

I would ask that each and every one of you keep in mind and keep in your prayers and your thoughts a member of the Big 12 Conference who has meant a great deal to the conference and a great deal to me personally, Donnie Duncan. I think all of you recognize the name. He's going through some very difficult times in his life right now. As a stout supporter and member of the Big 12 Conference, he has been very special to our conference.

We've got four young guys here. You're supposed to -- I think you'll have an opportunity to hear from them. All of them are tremendous young people, good teammates, good students, care about each other, care about doing things right, and I think you'll find that. I hope that each and every one of you get an opportunity to be in front of them, and I think you'll be impressed by the quality of character of those young guys. Good football players as well.

Q. I saw where you have seven quarterbacks listed on your roster, and I don't recall seeing seven quarterbacks on a Bill Snyder roster before. Upon going through the entirety of spring, I was wondering if you could assess the quarterback spot right now. Then, also, the summer transfer, Jonathan Banks, what he possesses and how he might fit into the mix.

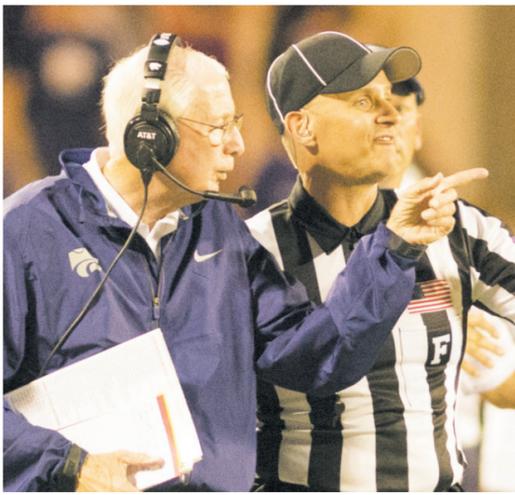

COACH SNYDER: Yes, we do have seven quarterbacks. I think probably four of them at this particular point in time -- in my eyes, anyway -- should be competitive for the position. We will go into our proverbial two-a-day practices with that in mind.

It's hard to get all the repetitions you would like with four guys sharing the opportunities, so it will be significant for us to be able to pare that down as quickly as we possibly can. I don't know how fast that will be. Right now they're all on equal footing.

Three of them went through spring practice. The young guy that you mentioned, Jonathan Banks, just recently joined us, a very athletic young guy. We haven't seen him in a practice environment yet. So that remains to be seen. But he will be one of the four probably that will be certainly in competition for the position.

I think they're all good young guys. They all care. They're all good teammates. They all do things the right way. They all want us to see. So I think that will be very competitive. We just want to sort it out as quickly as we can.

Q. Regarding the Big 12's new rule restricting live contact, what do you think of the rule? Has the amount of contact in your practices changed over the years? How much do players need to have contact to get acclimated to games?

COACH SNYDER: I would think that you have to have some. It will not affect us because the rule defined as it is in place right now, and we've had discussions of it in our conference meetings, is identical to what our needs are. So it doesn't alter anything that we have done. We don't have to make any changes in that respect.

I like the way we do our practices. We've been doing them the same way for a long time. So it plays out to favor what we do, I think.

Q. A lot of talk about expansion the last few weeks has risen up again. You have long advocated for a championship game, no matter what the conference format is. How do you stand on expansion? Do you feel like the league needs to get back to 12, or is 10 okay as long as you have a championship game?

COACH SNYDER: Let me try to answer it this way. I've long been an advocate of a certain way, and only because of its value to Kansas State. I mean, everybody has different opinions about it, and I understand that. We all have to think about collectively the conference and certainly our own programs and our own universities.

I have always favored the way it was at one time. I favor a 12-team conference, I favor two divisions, and I favor a championship game. You might remember that, when we had that format, we were one of only two teams that played a game in December, and that was one of only two conferences. That was the Big 12 Conference and the SEC. Now we're the only conference that does not do that and have that particular format.

I know it's hard to come by with being a 10-team conference. And as I said, I understand everybody doesn't want to do it that way. They all have very adequate reasons why they would not want to do it that way because of what it means to their particular program. That's just my opinion.

Q. Clearly, you are very passionate about your fan base, and your fan base is extremely passionate about Kansas State football. In light of all these awesome new renovations that you all have going on right now, can you talk about how important that fan base is to make Kansas State special.

COACH SNYDER: It goes back to the history, I think as much as anything. When we went to Kansas State University in '89, Kansas State University was a step away from being eliminated from what we define as Division I football at the time. And we had an attendance, average attendance of 13,000, give or take. There was an NCAA rule in place at the time that indicatments of his collective team and his teammates than he does about his own. I have great appreciation for that. There's a humility there. Dante is a very confident young guy, and I appreciate that a great deal. But by the same token, humility is part of his makeup, and I appreciate that a great deal as well. But I also believe that it's deserved because he has been -- aside from the other things, he's been a fine player as well.

Q. I was going to ask about Dante as well. When he showed up at campus, was he a natural leader, or is that something you've seen progress in his time there?

COACH SNYDER: I think he's progressed into it. It's not something that he -- not that he -- I'm not a big believer that people are natural this and natural that. I think you develop the capacity to lead for the most part. And I think over a period of time he has done that.

We try to promote leadership with young guys as soon as they step foot on our campus. I hear too often we've got X number of seniors and that's where your leadership lies. I think you have to help develop young guys from the very beginning, from the outset, because leadership's going to be important for them with their family, with their career field, in so many other aspects of their life, as well as it is for football.

So that's part of our responsibility, to help encourage and help create a foundation for the development of leadership with all the young guys we have.

Q. Coach Snyder, you say that you're in favor of conference expansion. Which teams do you see as viable options for the conference if they in the future choose to do so?

COACH SNYDER: Well, I haven't gotten into that. I do the easy part of it. I can identify issues. Solution is another story. I'm not going to -- I'm not going to be part of answering the question or providing solutions. If I could, probably -- if asked, I certainly would try to help. I don't have enough background information because I don't venture in that direction. I don't want to get sidetracked in what we do. So I really couldn't tell you.

I hear the schools that are mentioned from time to time, and I think all of them are mentioned for a reason. Obviously, they have fine programs, good universities. But I don't have a favorite or two favorites, and I don't know where all that would go.

I would say this. I think there is probably some universities out there that haven't necessarily been mentioned for maybe some obvious reasons that might have an interest in being a part of our conference. But I don't know that for a fact.

I don't really have a response or great answer to that.
